Red yellow blue balloons

Big Blue, also known as International Business Machines (IBM) - Get Report - reported its third quarter Tuesday night. The first thing that catches the eye is not eps beat of two cents. It's not even the revenue miss, which would be bad enough, falls $330 million short of consensus. The element that catches my eye is minus-sign in parentheses that comes just after the printout of $18.76 billion. It's -2% year over year. Yuck. My was thinking about it.... I wonder if CEO Ginni Romety has a problem. The company had returned to growth after six years in the hole. The expectation was that the company could stay there. Even more alarming in my opinion would be that the group that IBM refers to as there are strategic imperatives, which include the cloud, only pulled in $9.3 billion. This is down from $10.1 billion in the second quarter, and accounts for less than half of the company's revenue for the quarter. A contracting part of a growing business for a well-known company. It's ugly. To become even more detailed, the Cognitive Solutions segment of the business, which would include artificial intelligence and watson supercomputer, saw revenue decline significantly, about 5% year over year. The company explained this as seasonal and expects it to return in the current quarter. Hmm.What I ThinkMy thoughts is that Wall Street has been patient enough with this name. That doesn't mean there's no possibility here. I see that RBC is out defending the name this morning. RBC cites stabilized margins and improved performance from the service segment. RBC also maintained the stock at a Overweight rating, as well as their $175 target price. Stifel Nicolas was also out this morning, acknowledging the weakness of the software, but also cited the improved performance of services. I, as an investor, are drawn to the suddenly improved 4.6% dividend yield, and I will probably get myself long a rough 12.5% of what I would consider a full position in this name if I can get what I consider to be a steal at some point today. Possible Trade! only do this if I can get in under $132.50 later. If the shares fall to that level, I would consider pulling the trigger, but only if I can simultaneously sell a similar amount in January puts at $1.50 or higher, which would drop my nest basis to $131-ish. If I can't do this, I'll just take a walk. Plenty of fish in the sea. At the time of publication, Stephen Guilfoyle had no position in the securities mentioned. When blue and yellow are combined, the green is the result. Red, blue and yellow are known as primary colors. These are the three colors that cannot be produced by mixing other colors. All the colors of the rainbow can be made using the primary colors, plus black and white. Green is a secondary color. Secondary colors are the ones that can be produced from mixing two of the primary colors together. Orange and violet are two other secondary colors. The color tones in secondary colors are halfway between the two primary colors Them. The relationships between colors are displayed using a color wheel. March 18, 2019 ToyotaBI and Driver We have only seen the new Toyota Supra in a few exterior colors – until now. Toyota's website now lists all eight of the new sports car's exterior hues, which include the following: Absolute Zero White, Night Black, Renaissance Red 2.0, Phantom Matte Gray, Tungsten Silver, Turbulence Gray, Nitro Yellow and Downshift Blue. So we put together a gallery of Supra equipped in each of these paint options so you can choose your favorite. It's not a configurator live yet, but Toyota has released prices and full info about Supra trim levels and options. We're partial to blue and yellow, although the Launch Edition cars, which have red mirror caps and different wheels, look sharp too. These Launch Edition cars will be the first Supra models to reach dealerships sometime this spring, while Toyota says the rest of the colors won't be available until the fall. 1 of 11 2 of 11 3 of 11 4 of 11 Phantom Matte Gray This additional cost color adds $1,200 to the Supra bottom line. 5 of 11 6 of 11 7 of 11 Nitro Yellow As matte gray option, yellow costs extra, although its $400 upcharge is easier to swallow. 8 of 11 9 of 11 Nightly Black (Launch Edition) Launch Edition is only available for black, white and red cars, and differs with red mirror caps and black 19-inch wheels.
